

Emily Roberts guides the operations and growth of the firm's Columbus office, calmly and warmly handling countless firm, office, and team members' needs and activities. In addition to leading the office's busy and collaborative business services team, Emily among other things is the point person for community relations for the firm in the thriving Central Ohio region, works closely with the Columbus partners on strategic planning and implementation, and recently managed the renovation and expansion of the office's open and modern office space high above Columbus.

With her knack for finding creative ways to bring people together, Emily has led the office's successful return from the pandemic, always finding new ways to keep the office connected, communicating, and growing together.

Prior to becoming Office Administrator, Emily coordinated many office operations and communications, including the office's lively array of internal and external events, which she continues to lead. Emily's continued success underscores the firm's commitment to connecting its business services team with growth opportunities, a tradition she enthusiastically continues with her team as the office leader.
