Scott Godes, partner and co-chair of the firm’s Data Security and Privacy Practice Group, was recently quoted in a Business Insurance article, “Cyber security bill passes Senate muster.” In a 74-21 vote in October, the U.S. Senate approved The Cybersecurity Information Sharing Act of 2013. It protects businesses against liability if they share information with governmental agencies. The good thing about the Senate bill is “it allows for comparing notes and provides liability protection for companies” that share risk information and “fosters a sense of working together among companies,” said Scott.
