Employment litigation is the bane of corporate America. Fighting and fending off employment lawsuits can be expensive, time-consuming, distracting, and exhausting. And the biggest headache and largest budget-busting expense without question is the discovery process. In this webinar, we will review the ever-expanding role that discovery plays in modern litigation and go over some practical tips and options that employers can use to combat the rising costs of discovery.

We will also discuss how effectively managing discovery in a lawsuit is crucial to keeping costs in check, while at the same time collecting the information that will be needed to properly defend the case.
