

Josh White represents clients in the areas of corporate law and estate planning. He makes meaningful connections with clients to foster a mutually beneficial relationship to help them achieve their goals for themselves and their family in order to create a lasting legacy.

Josh helps his clients create and protect legacies. Having spent his entire career in family-centric legal disputes, he is acutely aware of how sudden changes in an individual's life can create a ripple effect for the rest of the family.

Josh focuses his practice on Medicaid planning, estate planning through the creation of wills, trusts, and powers of attorney, guardianships for both adults and children, and estate administration.

Josh prides himself on his compassion for those affected by the passing of a loved one and his ability to use his knowledge to help clients create the best plan for their own future and the futures of those they will leave behind.
