Barnes & Thornburg Adds Transactional Attorney Lawrence Humphrey To Atlanta Office

November 25, 2014 | Atlanta

ATLANTA – Barnes & Thornburg announced today that Lawrence Humphrey has joined the firm's Corporate Department as a partner in the Atlanta office.

Humphrey is a transactional attorney with a focus on general commercial and operational contracts. With experience in technology, corporate and real estate transactions, Humphrey's representative matters include software license agreements, equipment purchase agreements, asset purchase agreements, real estate purchase and sales agreements, real estate financings, construction agreements, leases, telecommunications access agreements, sponsorship agreements, broadcast rights agreements, and employment and independent contractor agreements.

"Larry's legal practice has encompassed a range of sophisticated transactions and complex business issues, while employing a practical value-driven perspective. As that perspective is what clients have come to expect from Barnes & Thornburg. Larry is a perfect fit for our office," said Stuart Johnson, managing partner of the firm's Atlanta office.

About Lawrence Humphrey

Humphrey was a partner at Wargo & French LLP and Dow Lohnes PLLC, where he represented clients in transactional, financing, real estate, intellectual property and employment matters. For nearly 15 years, Humphrey also served as pro bono counsel to the local chapter of Communities in Schools, Inc., a national dropout prevention organization, where he advised the board of directors and executive director.

Prior to becoming a lawyer, Humphrey was an engineer at E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company where he served in various supervisory, financial and technical roles. He earned his J.D. from the University of Georgia, his M.B.A. from the University of South Carolina, and his B.S.E. from Duke University.

With more than 600 attorneys and other legal professionals, Barnes & Thornburg is one of the largest law firms in the country. The firm serves clients worldwide from 12 offices in Atlanta, Chicago, Delaware, Indiana, Los Angeles, Michigan, Minneapolis, Ohio, and Washington, D.C.
