Now that Right to Work is a reality in Michigan, the State has hired a labor specialist to assist in implementing the laws, which went into effect March 28. Travis Calderwood was hired by the Michigan Bureau of Employment Relations in February to field questions from those who want to know more about the operation of the new law. Mr. Calderwood recently gave MLive an interview answering certain common questions. Employers with additional questions can contact Mr. Calderwood through the Bureau of Employment Relations.
