SOFTWARE AND TECHNOLOGY TRANSACTIONS

Open For Business

Whether you develop, manufacture, distribute, service or license software and technology, or if you would like to improve your business using software and emerging technology, we have the legal experience to help you.

Our attorneys can help you with every phase of your software and technology business needs, including:

- Financing
- Development
- Manufacturing
- Servicing
- Product packaging
- Distribution
- Licensing
- Advertising and marketing

We have helped many start-ups and established software and technology businesses secure financing for their operations and product lines, working with our network of private equity and venture capital firms. Our Entrepreneurial and Emerging Companies Practice Group brings a multidisciplinary approach to the needs of growing technology businesses. We also work with many state and local governments and public and private universities that provide development incentives through grants, tax abatement and technology incubators.

We can also help you license your software and technology to other developers and distributors, as well as negotiate the software and
