

NHLPA Decertification In The Works?

November 28, 2012 | Labor And Employment

Gerald F.
Lutkus
Of Counsel
(Retired)

Jeff Z. Klein of the New York Times has a great blog post this morning saying momentum is building for the NHL Players Association (NHLPA) to follow the strategies used by the players' unions in the NBA and NFL lockouts – decertify the union and file suit as a “trade association” against the league and the owners under the anti-trust laws in an effort to break the lock-out.

Here's a link to Klein's story – Slap Shot: “How the N.H.L. Players' Union Would Decertify”

RELATED PRACTICE AREAS

Labor and Employment
Labor Relations