White Collar and Investigations

Anne Parrish offers clients the detail-oriented approach to dispute resolution necessary to find the right solutions for their matters. Her litigation practice is focused on a variety of issues and claims faced by companies large and small.

Anne helps clients determine the best path forward for their litigation disputes, whether that is in court or in a negotiation or alternative dispute setting. She has researched and written legal memoranda, drafted cease and desist letters, and analyzed and compiled evidence from witness statements.

Prior to joining Barnes & Thornburg full-time, Anne was a law clerk and summer associate with the firm. She also interned for 3M's legal department and the Iowa Attorney General's Office.

While at Bowdoin, Anne was a goalie for its Division III women's soccer team and co-founded an all-female comedy group. She also spent a semester abroad in Copenhagen, Denmark, studying neuroscience.
