You hear it a lot – what is HR’s role in the company? Employee advocate? Defender of the company? Rule enforcer? Guardian of the culture? And so many more. And there’s no denying there is some tension over the question at some companies: HR does not always feel appreciated or respected, and business people sometimes feel that HR is overly bureaucratic.

This webinar will consider this seemingly timeless conundrum with reference to several specific scenarios that are critical to liability prevention and winning lawsuits, and how we have seen it done well and ... not.
