MINNEAPOLIS – Barnes & Thornburg has announced that Emily Hunt Turner was selected as the recipient of the law firm’s Nancy A. Sullivan Community Leadership Award. The award was presented at the firm’s 12th annual Women in Leadership: Exploring Pathways event on Sept. 13 in Minneapolis.

A civil rights attorney with a background in architecture, law and public policy, Turner spent five years as a federal attorney for the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), where she worked on housing segregation and barriers to housing for people affected by the justice system, before founding All Square.

The Nancy A. Sullivan Community Leadership Award – named in memory of beloved Barnes & Thornburg partner Nancy Sullivan, who died in 2013 as a result of domestic violence – was created to recognize women in the Minneapolis community who have achieved the highest level of professional excellence; exemplify a commitment to their community; are dedicated to helping others, especially women, in realizing their leadership potential; and exhibit the qualities of partnership, integrity and perseverance.
