Former Indianapolis Mayor Greg Ballard will discuss his research and his new book, Less Oil or More Caskets: The National Security Argument for Moving Away From Oil.

After a 23-year career in the U.S. Marine Corps and retiring as a lieutenant colonel, Greg Ballard returned home to Indianapolis in 2001. In 2007, he ran a successful campaign to become the 48th Mayor of Indianapolis, subsequently serving two terms. He is a member of the Indiana Veteran Affairs Commission and board member of the Indiana War Memorial Foundation. He is currently a Visiting Fellow for Civic Leadership and Archives at the University of Indianapolis.

SiriusXM/Transport Topics Radio host Dan Ronan is the moderator, with special introduction by former Senator Richard Lugar (R-IN).
