Four Barnes & Thornburg Attorneys Named To Variety's 15th Annual Dealmakers Impact Report

December 8, 2022 | Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES – Four attorneys in Barnes & Thornburg's Entertainment, Media and Sports practice group have been named to Variety's Dealmakers Impact Report 2022.

The publication recognized the firm's Los Angeles-based team of Jason M. Karlov, Carolyn Hunt, Bryan Thompson and Amanda Taber. The group represents award-winning music artists and their business and personal legal matters, film financing, production incentives and distribution deals; business-altering talent deals; corporate partnership deals; and music and live events.

The publication recognized Karlov for his representation of renowned music artists and their business and personal legal matters, along with legal work on strategic partnerships for professional sports leagues, teams and corporations. Hunt was highlighted for her focus on media finance and entertainment transactional matters, with an emphasis on motion picture transactions.

Thompson was recognized for serving as legal counsel through the development, production, financing and distribution of television projects. Taber was noted for her role in several confidential deals in music, live events, licensing, endorsements/sponsorships, and copyright and on several large transactions.

As the premier source for global entertainment business news, Variety's 15th annual report highlights the toughest negotiators that proved themselves over the past year, fighting for instrumental deals and generating growth for their clients.

With more than 800 attorneys and other legal professionals, Barnes &
