

Attorney Presentation - "Cyber Insurance (How To Get Paid) And Data Breach Class Actions (How To Not Pay)"

DATE

March 31, 2016

SPEAKERS

Scott N. Godes
Partner

On March 31, Scott Godes of the Washington D.C., office moderated a panel regarding cyber insurance and data breach class actions titled, "Cyber Insurance (How to Get Paid) and Data Breach Class Actions (How To Not Pay)" at the first-ever Incident Response Forum 2016 held at the Four Seasons in Washington, D.C. This conference, the first of its kind, was focused solely on the field of incident response - the work that begins after a data breach. It was geared specifically for legal and compliance professionals who have emerged as critical players during a data breach response. More than 150 people registered for the event, and the attendees included in-house counsel, cybersecurity defense counsel, forensic firms, and government personnel who focus on data breaches.
