The Georgia Brownfield Association held its annual seminar at Georgia State University in Atlanta with a full day of presentations and case studies on federal and state Brownfield redevelopment projects and related issues, including electrical vehicles, PFAS, and a keynote from the Georgia Ports Authority. The firm was a sponsor of the event. Rich Glaze was part of a panel presentation, “ESG Considerations for Brownfields,” moderated by Charlie Denton. Charlie also moderated a program on innovative remedial investigation techniques for Brownfield Redevelopment.
