With a deep bench in life sciences and many other technical areas, our skilled attorneys work with established companies, startups, universities, and others to build patent portfolios that align with their business goals, advise on product clearances, and provide litigation expertise in the biomedical, pharmaceutical, and medical device fields.

We understand the needs of clients that make up Metro Boston's most innovative companies and universities, and work with them to bring those innovations from idea to market.

Backed by a full-service law firm, the attorneys in the Boston office counsel clients on a wide variety of patent, copyright, trademark, licensing, trade secret, M&A, white collar and commercial litigation, and other sophisticated legal matters.

We care not just about our clients' success, but also about the communities in which we all live and work as demonstrated through our Boston attorneys' commitment to pro bono and civic activities.
